

RADIOLOGY QUIZ

Mohammed Eladi

ENT Resident, Shoubra General Hospital (Kitchener), Egypt

Email: dr_moh_eladi@hotmail.com

A female patient, 60 year old, not known to be diabetic or hypertensive, presented with persistent unilateral severe facial pain and headache, facial edema together with offensive blood tinged greenish nasal mucopurulent discharge following dental extraction 3 weeks prior to onset, the case was not responding to medical treatment.

According to the next PNS-CT coronal cut study.

What is your diagnosis?

